THE DAILY FREEMAN,

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.
Sundays excepted,
BY HORATIO FOWKS,
at the Newkirk Building, Division St.,
City of Kingston, (Rondout, N. Y.)

The DAILY FREEMAN will be an Independent Republican Journal, with an opinion on every subject, firm in its advocacy of freedom, equal rights and just laws for all men; outspoken in its opposition to the abuses and the follies of the day, in favor of progress and improvement everywhere, and especially devoted to the interests of the City of Kingston and vicinity.

The Telegraphic News Department will be complete and well supplied, the FREEMAN being a MEMBER OF THE NEW YORK ASSOCIATED PRESS, through which it receives and is enabled to present a full summary of intelligence from all parts of the world every morning.

Local News and especially City, Town and County News will receive special attention, paid correspondents being employed in all parts of the county. All news received from other than our regular correspondents will paid for if used. Full reports of all important meetings will be presented, and in every respect the DAILY FREEMAN will be a First-Class Paper and a worthy companion of the WEEKLY FREEMAN.

Commercial and Stock Reports carefully corrected every day.

THE DAILY FREEMAN will furnish for the breakfast table of its patrons the News from All Parts of the World up to 3 o'clock, A. M.

Terms—Six Dollars per year, payable invariably in advance. If collected weekly, Fifteen Cents per week. Single copies four cents.

Advertisements will be displayed as ordered, and charged according to the space occupied, measured in inches down the column.

Discovery of the Nathan Murderer.

HIS SKELETON FOUND IN A KENTUCKY CAVE—WRITTEN CONFESSION OF THE CRIME—NEW YORK CHIEF OF POLICE NOTIFIED—DESCRIPTION OF THE CAVE—MAMMOTH OUTDONE—CRYSTALS OF STALACTITES—REMAINS OF SOLDIERS OF THE REVOLUTION.

[Correspondence of the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

AURORA, Ind., July 16.—The people of this city are laboring under intense excitement occasioned by the discovery of a large cave and the remains of three persons two miles below this city, on the Kentucky shore. The locality known as Split Rock, familiar to old river men as Kirby's Rocks, two miles below here, in Boone County, Ky., is a wild, romantic place, consisting of a high cliff of rocks, tossed and tumbled about promiscuously, as if by some mighty convulsion of nature in ages past. A dense growth of foliage borders the north side of this rocky prominence. Early this morning three boys crossed over into Kentucky for the purpose of gathering blackberries. At ten o'clock they returned in an excited state, and reported that they had found a cave at Split Rock heretofore unknown.—They and their parents, with several others, out of curiosity, started for the place. Two or three small caverns beneath some of the rocks had been known there for years, and nothing beyond something like this was expected by the party. Arriving at the ledge of rocks, the boys made their way through the dense thicket of vines and bushes, followed by the men. A tree had been uprooted by the storm which recently passed over this neighborhood, tearing up the earth and disclosing the entrance of the cave. Lamps were procured at a farmhouse near by, and the party commenced the exploration. In the meantime some of the company returned to Aurora, and some score of people were hurrying to the place. A skiff containing Drs. Sutton and Bond, O. P. Cobb, Mayor Emrie and the writer was among the earliest at the place, and the party proceeded to make a thorough examination of the premises. The party who had first gone in returned, giving a wonderful report of the dimensions of the cave, and startling the little company by the report of the discovery of the remains of three human beings, one of which, from pretty good evidence, is supposed to be

THE MURDERER OF BENJAMIN NATHAN.

The entrance of the cave faces directly west, and is about one-fourth of a mile from the river shore. It is about four feet high and perhaps as wide. Two limestone rocks form the sides of the entrance, and the roof is of a heavy shale of the same material. Both sides and roof are rough and irregular in form, sharp-pointed rocks jutting out in all directions. About twenty feet from the mouth the floor drops abruptly down for two or three feet. The party had proceeded thus far when they fell back aghast as the pale light of the lamps disclosed the skeleton of a human being, covering which were the clothes it had worn when alive. The garments consisted of a black frock woolen coat, a mixed gray pair of pants, and a vest of apparently the same material, and a dark hat. The physicians gave it as their opinion that the body had lain there for a year probably. In one of the pockets was found a penknife, and in another a copy of a New York paper dated May 3, 1870, on the margin of which was written in pencil, almost illegibly, the following:

CONFESSION.

I have found a hiding-place from man, but God's eye follows me even here. I murdered Benjamin Nathan, and am dying now. God forgive me, and have mercy on my soul! I die by my own hand. ANTONIO HARFE.

In another place was found written the words, "Oh, my mother." Can this be the murderer of Benjamin Nathan? Some believe it is, while others are inclined to think it is but the freak of a crazy man. Nearly two years ago there is remembered to have been seen in the locality of the cave an unknown apparently crazy man, whose dress corresponded with that found on the skeleton. After a time he suddenly disappeared. Many believe the unknown man and skeleton are identical.

THE CHIEF OF POLICE OF NEW YORK CITY

has been notified of this event. The authorities of Aurora have taken charge of the clothes, and placed the skeleton in a vault at River View Cemetery, near this city. The room in which the skeleton was found gradually widens and increases in height, and the lights of half a dozen lamps does not show the end.—Near the mouth the floor or bottom seemed to be of black earth, but here it is of solid rock. Frequent examinations failed to discover any variety of stone or rock comprising the sides of the cave to be other than lime, except here and there a deposit of iron ore. The floor dips and rises at intervals in the form of huge waves. At different points the roof is scooped and hollowed out, corresponding with the wave-like formation of the floor, and at others it is even and regular. We pick our way into this new subterranean wonder with caution, ever on the lookout for chasms and pits, of which, however, we found but one of any dimensions. Numerous side caverns lead off at intervals, but so far as explored none extend beyond a distance of a dozen paces. At a distance of perhaps two hundred feet from the entrance the cave forms an angle with itself, turning abruptly to the left. Thus far we have been leading directly down the river, but this turn takes us directly from the river and into the hills which lie back of this point. Beyond this the rocks forming the sides draw gradually together, narrowing the cave as it proceeds. About 75 feet from the turning point the room is narrowed down until a man's body is only admitted comfortably. At this point the roof is about 25 feet above our heads. This continues about 30 feet, and the hall again becomes suddenly wider. Twenty feet from the terminus of the narrow passage the room is at least 40 feet wide, and half as high. In this room, which is estimated to be we hear the murmur of running water. A short search in the uncertain light discovers a little stream no larger than a man's finger winding in serpentine curves along the left of the room. We trace it up and find its source. It bursts out of the wall about 3 feet from the floor, and running down in a sheet over the side insinuates itself into a well-worn channel and hurries on for perhaps the distance of 80 feet, where it disappears in a small crevice in the rock. The bed through which this little stream runs is chiselled out and polished smooth as glass. At places it is worn down about a foot, while at others it is only two inches. This room is not excelled in grandeur by any in the great Mammoth Cave of Edmonson County. The sides are rough and jagged, and are covered with a dark-colored incrustation of iron and manganese. Interspersed with this are shining crystals of gypsum, and the effect is grand and beautiful.—The ceiling, which is rather concave, is pictured in the same fantastic manner, and we gaze upon it in wonder and admiration. Hanging pendent from the ceiling and from protruding rocks in the walls are beautiful stalactites that have doubtless been ages in forming. Here we found pillars reaching from the floor to the ceiling, a distance of fifteen feet. Mammoth Cave has them thirty feet in height. By the light of our flickering lamps we continue our examinations, meeting with nature's greatest handiwork at every turn.

RELICS OF PAST AGES

are scattered here and there, showing that the cave was known by earlier races. It was doubtless a resort for the Indians, as numerous arrow-heads and stones bearing the rude carving of the red men have been picked up. A kind of tomahawk, carved out of the solid rock, was found near the entrance of the cave by Dr. G. Sutton. It is a curiously modelled affair, and has rude characters scratched upon the side. The party continued its explorations, ever meeting with something that filled them with awe and wonder. No actual measurement has yet been made, but it is believed the cave is two miles in length. It abounds in immense chambers, and has nine side caverns starting out at different points. The pit discovered is about midway in, and at the top is perhaps eight feet in diameter. Its sides, so far as seen, are rough and irregular.—Water can be hear within it. A paper lighted and thrown down was extinguished about twenty feet from the top. A stone dropped down gave back hollow and sepulchral sounds, and it was thought to have dropped at least forty feet before striking the bottom. In one of the small caverns were found two of the skeletons above spoken of. How came they there? Many are the conjectures indulged in. The general belief is that they are the remains of the who, wounded and pursued by the Indians, secreted themselves and perished. This memorable massacre took place in the year 1781. A company of Virginia soldiers, under command of Colonel Septimus Laughery, were passing down in a boat to join a command at Louisville, when they were decoyed ashore here by Indians and all were killed by the treacherous savages. At this time a stream of excited people are passing in and out of this newly discovered realm of darkness, and further discoveries will doubtless be made.

Rascality Ground to an Edge.

ADVENTURE OF A NEW YORK GENTLEMAN IN SAN FRANCISCO—THE CLERGYMAN AND HIS LITTLE BOY WHO WANTED TO GO TO THE THEATRE.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

There is an inspiration in the climatic influences of California that excites the faculty of shrewdness in the human character to the highest point, and when this trait inclines to erratic tendency, it usually develops rascality of an ingenious and artistic order; none of your sneaking, pocket-picking, contemptible artifice, but dignified and majestic villainy, calculated to command the admiration and reverence even of its victim. A few days since a gentleman arrived here from New York city, and coming from that locality one would naturally suppose the visitor was thoroughly educated in all the deceits and deceptions ever conceived for entrapping the guileless and unsophisticated; but he had never traveled in San Francisco before.

Entering one of the street cars on Wednesday afternoon, he was casually drawn into conversation with a venerable gentleman of clerical garb and mien, who took a seat beside him. As the conversation proceeded, the reverend gentlemen disclosed that he was on a visit to the city, was the pastor of a fashionable congregation in the neighborhood of New York, and to complete the singular coincidence, he was sojourning at the same hotel with his newly-formed mercantile acquaintance. On this information, the intimacy between the two became confirmed, and on returning to the hotel, some hours of agreeable intercourse resulted in an agreement to visit Yosemite, in company, previous to returning together Eastward.

It was early in the evening of the same day the merchant and the clergyman had resumed the comparison of the observations of life on the Pacific coast, in the sitting room of the hotel, when a bright, intelligent-looking lad came tripping in breathless and addressed the latter: "Oh, papa, can I not go to the theatre, just for once; it is Maggie Mitchell from New York that is performing here, and I want to see the theatre only this time."

"No, my son," replied the grave and reverend parent; "it would be improper for me to accompany you to such a place of amusement and I could not consent to your visiting the theatre unless under the protection of some friend."

The mercantile gentleman from New York bethought himself on this suggestion that a couple of hours Thespian divertisement would relieve the monotony of the evening, and immediately favored the inclination of the lad, kindly tendering his protection and society.

"Well, my son," remarked the solicitous parent on this proposition, "since my friend desires to attend the theatre, I have no objection to your going in such company, this one time."

The engagement was immediately assented to, and shortly after the merchant from New York and the delighted son of his esteemed clerical friend started on their way to the Metropolitan. The two had proceeded but a short distance when the lad suddenly stopped and reminded himself of an important precaution. "I must go back," he said to his companion, "and leave my watch and money with father; for people are always sure to get robbed in San Francisco."

The earnestness of the lad aroused the apprehensions of the merchant as well, and on returning to the hotel he also insisted on depositing his watch, a valuable gold chronometer, and a pocket-book containing $480 in greenbacks, in charge of his clerical friend.—The latter hesitated as to the propriety of accepting the trust, but finally consented on condition that the merchant from New York should take his receipt for the money and watch, which was duly drawn and delivered.

The two set out again for the theatre, much more at ease concerning the security of their valuables. It is needless to remark that Maggie was sparkling and captivating, as usual, and the New Yorker was deeply engaged in the interests of the play. His juvenile companion, however, manifested a greater appreciation of peanuts than dramatic talent. The lad finally started for another pint, and did not return. His guardian became alarmed, and hastened anxiously to the hotel to make inquiry. The missing youth was not there, neither was the pious and conscientious parent; and more singular still, the clerk has never received any formal intimation of the presence of such reverend gentlemen among the guests of the house. The venerable gentleman had probably wandered off in one of those fits of abstractedness peculiar to clergymen of that class. When he returns, the gentleman from New York has his receipt to cover the property, and he will probably preserve it as a precious memento meantime.

Philip Gould.

The leading journals have been giving a daily column of eager comment on the Stokes matter; the skillful chicanery of the trial of a fast young man for the murder of a thief in behalf of an unchaste woman. There is another story, which they pass by in silence, of a young fellow who, on last Friday, did what he could for women too, though in another fashion, ungilded by diamonds or stocks or romantic nastiness, which seems to us at least as well worth the telling. A party of excursionists had gone out from Philadelphia to the hills near Norristown, and just before dusk gathered about a station called Spring Mill, in order to return home. The track at this point slopes sharply about the hill, with a bank on one side and a declivity on the other. Five of the women were on this track, when the whistle of the approaching express was heard sweeping round the curve not twenty yards from them. They mistook it for the train on the other side of the river, which was just passing, and did not move. The next instant the express flashes into sight; the crowd, terrified, shrink back with a cry of terror; all except one man, who throws himself in the very front of the engine, thrusts one after the other of the five down the embankment into safety, and is caught up and dashed to the ground at their feet—dead. It does not seem to us to add any force to the story to state that the women, and the man who gave his life for them so simply and promptly, as though it were the only natural thing for him to do, were colored.

During the war we crowned with our laurel and our praise those gallant young fellows who flung life away for some greater good—the safety of their country—the freedom of a race. Because the same cause touched our own convictions and burned in our own blood, we thought it was that which had strengthened them for the sacrifice. But better than any cause is the inherent bravery of blood that meets death as a companion, the quiet, just contempt of life when weighed against the simple duty of manhood. Philip Gould lived unknown and unnoticed; he had received, most probably, neither gifts of intellect nor culture to claim any especial regard; only a plain, blunt man, who—of this we are sure—loved his friend. The women were mere acquaintances; there was no call for sacrifice on him more than on any other of the crowd who stood about them. There was no reason why he should fling away his young life, as full of promise, as strong and sweet to him as that of any man of fairer skin, beyond the fact that there are certain men among us of royal blood, who live obscurely until some circumstance bids them prove their birth.

We hope the story of this man who died so manfully will be told, simply because it is a wholesome and ennobling story to us all. Praise cannot benefit him now, nor give comfort to whoever is left behind to love or care for him. The quiet life of such men is worth more to those who know them than any act of sacrifice; "dying was not all they had the skill "to do." We believe, too, that the most cheering part of the story is the fact that such men are common about us. There is not a railroad accident nor emergency of any kind which does not bring to light deeds of heroism, of self-sacrifice, of unselfishness that stir the pulse and bring the water to the eyes. We thank God for such men as this gallant lad, and thank Him the more that we find so many of them on every side of us in black skins and in white. We do not mourn Earl Percy dead the less because we know that we have a "hundred living still as gallant knights as he."

THE "LIGHT RUNNING" "DOMESTIC"

Sewing Machines.
The burly-burly of the Sewing-Machine war is ended. Various manufacturers have paraded their machines before the public, with a great flourish of trumpets and waving of banners. In their eagerness to effect sales, the different agents resorted to all sorts of trickery to trap the unwary, and hundreds of farmers' wives, and farmers themselves, in this county, had forced upon them worthless machines in an unguarded moment. You, who have not yet made up your minds which to buy of the many machines offered, we advise to carefully examine into the merits of the "Domestic." Independent of its many good qualities, (and we believe it to be the best in the world) it is in the hands of a gentleman here, well known to thousands of our readers, who would not knowingly make false representations.—We feel justified in saying that we believe A. Goodrich fully satisfied himself, before taking the agency of the "Domestic," that it was perfect in all its parts, and that he could unhesitatingly recommend it to all.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 23, 1872.

We Follow Ideas.

A neighbor informs us that some thirty odd years ago he attended a public meeting on Spring street, New York, at which the principal speaker was Horace Greeley. His theme was the Public Schools, which he urged ought to be free and graded, so as to economize time in instruction and thereby advance the pupils more rapidly in intellectual development. At the time his ideas were looked upon as chimerical—opposed to the best interests of society, hence he was anathematized as a fanatic and demagogue, who was trying to steal the money of the tax-payers that he might cater to the passions of the poor, and thereby secure their political influence for his party. In the course of time, however, the scheme grew into favor, until the graded school system of the city was established, and remains to-day a monument of the benevolent work of a few men who dared advocate the right. Horace Greeley was chief of them.

When the famine of '47 and '48 was depopulating Ireland, he was at the head of a movement which freighted vessels with food and sent them to the Green Island. Every day he plead for famishing Irishmen until all our land was awake to their sufferings, and relief followed in the wake of the emotions of a free people.

Again, when the fanaticism of proscription made the minds of men mad, and they arose on the tidal wave of Know Nothingism to sweep away the rights of Irishmen, Germans and Catholics, Horace Greeley through the New York Tribune threw hot shot among the iconoclastic crowd. His pungent reasons for the equality of all men foreign-born as well as native, arrested the wave, and swept out the American party. The fact is, his mouth and pen have always been at the service of equality and justice.—In the vindication of these, he now stands before the American people as a candidate for president. Having freed all other classes, he wishes to restore equality to the truant southern whites, and thus make them again children of the Union. Perhaps, in this, he is ahead of his countrymen, nevertheless the Liberal Republicans and Democrats appeal to Americans to elect him, conscious that the day when a man can be too great to be president is past. Mankind love the moral hero.

Consul-General Butler.

There is certainly something mysterious about the civil service reform for which the administration claims credit before the people. The President recommended it in his message, and yet the Senators specially in favor at the White House use their best efforts against it. Mr. George W. Curtis thinks and says everything is going on swimmingly in this matter, yet good men are removed and other men appointed for political reasons, just the same as heretofore. Unfit men stay in office notwithstanding the reform, as witness Casey of New Orleans, whose resignation, though obtained months after he should have been removed, was trumpeted over the land as an instance of reform.—And yet Casey still reigns. As also does Tom. Murphy, who is the real Collector of the Port of New York to-day.

But the case of this wretch Butler, the infamous Consul-General in Egypt, is too flagrant. A year ago the Independent published a strong arraignment of him, charging him with ill-treatment of missionairies, of using his position to make money, of scandalous proceedings, such as going to see naked dancing girls, and otherwise bringing the service into contempt. Now he has brought it into more conspicuous disgrace by his rowdy assault on Egyptian officers.

The outcry against this last outrage upon decency is too decided to be overlooked, so the administration has to say something. And what is it? Why, the Washington Chronicle says the President ordered his removal a year ago! We might better not have had an explanation, for this suggests the inquiry—"Who is President?" If Grant ordered his removal a year ago, how happens it he didn't go out?

A person looking at this civil service question, must exercise a vast deal of charity to avoid the impression that there is an understanding on the part of the President with his underlings, which orders they are to obey and which not. Some politicians being called on to make a good many recommendations to office have a secret understanding with the powers that be which recommendations they are to heed, those in black ink to be disregarded, but those in red to be obeyed. Probably the President's civil service messages and Butler's removal were written in black ink. Now let us have one in red, Mr. President.

Damages Six.

The late despatches from the Geneva tribunal state the British agent has presented a demurrer praying that the cases of the vessels Tallahassee, Chicamauga, Sumter, Nashville, Retribution, Boston, Sallie, Jeff. Davis, V. H. Jay and Music be excluded from the American claims.—This is no more than was to be expected. If you present us a bill which we say is too large and you admit that certain of the charges were put in merely to have us decide whether we should pay them or not, it is very natural we should think you put in other charges for the same reason, and that we in time come to think the whole bill false and incorrect.

The simple duty before Gen. Grant and Secretary Fish was to say to England, "We stand by our case. If you choose not to go before the Geneva tribunal, it is no fault of ours." No war need have ensued.—We could have afforded to wait until England became meshed in some great conflict, and then, serving her as well as she served us in our Rebellion, demanded our full claims, and we would have received them too.—But now we are cheated out of our indirect damages, the Geneva Board of Arbitration having pronounced them inadmissable. It was no wonder this was the decision after Mr. Fish had admitted as much. That gentleman and Gen. Grant seemed to be completely dumbfounded before the storm of English opinion against the indirect claims, and when the New York Times, which being edited by an Englishman who has not thrown off his allegiance to his native country, is an echo of English sentiment,—when the New York Times set up the British cry and recommended a complete back-down, Gen. Grant and his Secretary yielded. About this time there appeared a picture in Punch in which stout John Bull held America as a small boy with a wry face, by the ear. "If you do not stop howling about indirect damages" says John Bull, "I will give you some direct ones to howl about." To this bullying sentiment and its humbler echo in the New York Times, which paper was the first in this country to advise the back-down, Gen. Grant and Mr. Fish succumbed.

This fact alone, were there not, lamentably, a hundred others, would prove that, however great as a military officer Gen. Grant may be, he is incompetent in civil service. As for Mr. Fish, a school-boy would have done better.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Susan B. pronounces for Ulysses.

Ex-Congressman Burt Van Horn is out for Greeley.

Ex-Congressman Hughes of Sandy Hill has declared for Greeley.

Senator Thurman thinks Greeley will have 200 electoral votes.

Secretary Boutwell left the chasm part out of his second speech.

Wallace Tappan, another member of the Grant State Committee, has resigned in a very sharp letter.

Forney says Greeley will make a good President, and that he will only vote for Grant, not making any speeches for him.

The Grant elector selected for the thirteenth district of Pennsylvania tenders his resignation of the position, as he feels compelled to go for Greeley.

We have received circular No. 4, an administration document, under the frank of John Coburn, of Indiana, but mailed at Washington. Won't Grant's friends say something about this? Come, speak out.

The Grantites complain that "Dixie" was played at Baltimore. Some one found fault with Mr. Lincoln for wishing to hear this fine tune played. "Don't you like it?" asked Mr. Lincoln. "No, it is a rebel piece," was the reply. "You are mistaken," said the great President. "It was theirs, but you know we captured it."

The whole situation can be summed up thusly: When the Grant politicians had got the cards nicely placed to suit them, the people took the whole pack in their hands and gave them a thorough shuffle for a new deal with a new trump, which is likely to be king of hearts and not the old knave of diamonds, of which they are heartily sick. And this is what ails the politicians.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

In some parts of Florida land is selling at 18 cents an acre.

A hailstorm in the Levant killed 2,000 sheep, besides cows and horses.

New York has been short of ice, owing to the difficulty in bringing it to market.

Among the visitors at Chappaqua on Sunday were Dr. Woodcock, Mr., Mrs. and Miss Partridge. Quite a game lot.

The Indians visiting Albany were greatly astonished by the small waists of the women, and wondered how they breathed.

A Connecticut matron has a cake baked at the time of Harrison's election, thirty-two years ago. She will cut it when Greeley is elected.

A Tennessee man eighty years old has been sentenced to twenty-one years' imprisonment for horse stealing. It is thought he won't repeat the offence.

Oxford University is about to confer an honorary degree upon Louis Napoleon. His Majesty would probably prefer L. s. d. to LL. D., if he had his choice.

Sunday was an unprecedentedly dull day in New York city. A few inhabitants who remained in town had to stuff their ears with cotton to keep out the painful stillness.

A son of Edward Rutledge, of South Carolina, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, is said to be still living in Illinois at the age of one hundred and three years.

Another suit has grown out of Mr. Gould's late connection with Erie. It is brought to cancel the contract made with the Jefferson Railway Company by that gentlenan and his clique. The directors propose moving their office from the Grand Opera House, on account of the high rents.

It is asserted that it may be accredited that Marshal MacMahon has consented to accept the Presidency of France should it be suddenly left vacant by either the resignation or death of M. Thiers. Certain it is that a very bad state of affairs exists in the country. In Paris trade is stagnant. Thousands of shops are closed and for rent, and a monetary crisis reigns. All Thiers's old and intimate friends have left him, and anything which may happen can scarcely be looked upon with surprise.

Associated Press Dispatches.

BY TELEGRAPH TO DAILY FREEMAN.

SPAIN.

MADRID, July 22.

A large sum of money was found on one of those engaged in the attempt to assassinate the King and Queen. This, together with the antecedents of the other prisoner, it is believed, conclusively establishes that the men had no political feeling which would have prompted them to attempt the deed, but were merely hired instruments of a political conspiracy.

Previous to the attempt the King had received an anonymous communication, warning him that his life was in danger. When the attack was made a sharp engagement occurred between the would-be assassins and the police and King's escort. His Majesty himself was anxious to participate, but was prevented by his attendants. It is generally believed that the parties arrested are the same who assassinated General Prim.

GENEVA ARBITRATION.

GENEVA, July 22.

It is generally understood in Geneva that the tribunal of arbitration took up, and has now under consideration, the case of the privateer Florida.

GENEVA, July 22.

Claims for damages caused by the vessels Boston, Sallie, Jeff. Davis, Joy, and Music, have been dismissed by the arbitrators. The demurrer of Great Britain concerning other vessels is overruled. The case of the Florida was concluded to-day. The decision, it is believed awards $2,690,000 damages for her depredations.

The Board took up the case of the Alabama to-day.

THE BARNARD TRIAL—A SEVERE INDICTMENT.

SARATOGA, July 22.

The Impeachment Court met at ten o'clock. Mr. Van Cott, on behalf of the Managers, opened the case. He gave a brief history of the purposes of such courts, particularly in this country, defined the duties of a Judge, charged Barnard with administering his office in utter disregard of all such duties, said the supremacy of the law was the principle on which our system of government rested, and that ours was a government of law not of men.

Judges were in duty bound to adhere strictly to the law. If they mistook the law and gave wrong decisions they were sometimes excusable, but if a Judge perverts the law, or departs from it recklessly, with criminal intent, he is subject to impeachment. He added that the Court should be charitable in its investigation, but at the same time mete out justice to the accused.

He then defined what impeachable offences were, and cited cases. The first was a case of ship money judges. The next was a case of judges who advised the King of England that he could dispense with the laws, that he could direct the judges how to decide cases. Also the cases of Judge Chase, Shippen, and others were alluded to. Judge Chase was acquitted because he had decided according to law, and not contrary to law. On the other hand Judge Addison was convicted for deciding in violation of law.

He also cited a case in Pennsylvania, where the judge had imprisoned a defendant for contempt of court, which contempt consisted of published libel. The court was governed by English law, which they supposed applied here. He then proceeded to review the specifications against Barnard, charging among other things that it was only necessary to use the name of Fisk or Gould to get a stay of proceedings from him against any one.

SARATOGA, July 22.

In court to-day, Nehemiah Millard attorney for John Nyce in the suit brought against the Erie Railroad Co., was examined for the prosecution. He did not know who prepared the complaint. An injunction was secured at the chambers of Judge Barnard. He thought Judge Barnard examined the papers when he granted the injunction. The injunction order was identified by witness and placed in evidence. Witness said the next proceeding was, he received a motion to dissolve the injunction. The motion was argued before Judge Cardozo. He rendered no decision then. There was another motion to dissolve the injunction, made before Judge Brady, and set aside. Witness was shown orders vacating the orders of the injunction issued by Judge Brady and he identified them. Witness thought he did not obtain any other orders from Barnard.

Counsel read copies of complaints of Fisk and others against Heath and others, which he offered in evidence, also an order appointing Jas. H. Coleman receiver, issued on the 23d of June 1870; and an injunction against transfering the stock of Heath and Raphael. Van Cott said a witness who had papers they wished to introduce, was absent, and it would facilitate proceedings to adjourn till to-morrow morning. Adjourned.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

NEW YORK, July 22.

A Paris letter to the World says it may be reliably asserted that Marshal MacMahon has consented to accept the Presidency of France, if Thiers resigns or dies. Trade is stagnant in Paris, and thousands of shops are closed for rent, and a momentary crisis reigns. Many of Thiers' old friends are deserting him.

The celebration of Swiss independence to day was enthusiastic. Fourteen New York, Brooklyn and Jersey societies, numbering 1,500 men, with 200 guests from Buffalo, Troy, Baltimore and other cities, proceeded to Jones' woods, where the festivities consisted of addresses, prize shooting, singing and dancing, as well as a spectacle representing a Swiss marriage in the 17th century.

The marble-cutters entered upon the 9th week of the strike, with little prospect of immediate success, and as little of speedy surrender.—The marble-polishers are ready to resume work on the old system, but are unable, their work being dependent upon the cutters.

Judge Pratt dismissed the proceedings in the application of Wm. V. Smith for a mandamus compelling Comptroller Green to pay him a salary as surveyor on street improvements; such claims being payable from assessment bonds, to be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments for the improvement.

ALABAMA POLITICS.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 22.

Ex-Senator Warner and S. J. Rice, late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Alabama, have declared for Greeley and Brown.

A large Greeley and Brown ratification meeting was held here Saturday night, at which resolutions endorsing the Liberal Republican nominations and the action of the Baltimore Convention were unanimously adopted. A number of colored men participated.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN SCHURZ AND GREELEY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 22.

The following correspondence was read by Senator Schurz to-night:

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 26.

Horace Greeley:

DEAR SIR: In your letter of acceptance you promise thorough reform of the civil service in general terms. The question of how the problem of civil service reform presents itself to your mind, is one of great interest, and I would suggest, if it be consistent with your views of propriety, that you give me such explanations as will put your intentions in this respect in a clear light.

Yours Truly,

C. SCHURZ.

The following is Greeley's reply:

NEW YORK, July 5.

MY DEAR SIR: Yours of the 26th ultimo only reached me three days ago. I respond as promptly as I may. The problem of civil service reform is rendered difficult by an alliance between the executive and legislative branches of our federal government. Those members of Congress who favor the administration, habitually claim, and are accorded virtual monopoly of federal offices in their respective states or districts, dictating appointments and removals as interest or caprice may suggest. The President appoints at their bidding. They legislate in subservence to his will, often in opposition to their own convictions. Unless all history is unmeaning, this confession of executive and legislative responsibilities and functions could not fail to distemper and corrupt the body politic.

I hold that the eligibility of our President's re-election is the main source of this corruption. A President should be without hope of future favor, and the fear of alienating powerful, ambitious partisans. He should be the official chief, not of party, but of the Republic. He should dread nothing but the accusing voice of history and the inexorable judgment of God. He should fully realize and never forget that Congress in its own sphere is paramount, and not amenable to his supervision; and that the heartiest good-will to his administration is perfectly compatible with the most pointed dissent from his inculcation. In the very gravest questions, in finance or political economy, it is the first step that costs. Let it be settled that the President is not to be re-elected while in office, and civil service reform is no longer difficult. He will need no organs, no subsidized defenders. He will naturally select his chief counsellors from among the ablest and wisest of his eminent fellow citizens. He will have no clan to attach to his personal fortunes. He will be impelled to appoint, as none will deny that he should appoint men of ripe experience in business, and of eminent mercantile capacity, to collect, keep and disburse revenue instead of dextrous manipulators of primary meetings and skilful tricksters in nominating conventions. He will thus transform the civil service of the country from a party machine, into a business establishment. No longer an aspirant to place, the President will naturally aim to merit and secure the approbation of the entire people, but especially of the eminently wise and good. As to the machinery of the board of examiners &c., whereby details of civil service reform are to be matured and perfected, I defer to the judgment of a Congress unperverted by adulterous commerce in legislations and appointments, which I have already exposed, and reprehended. Up to this time, our experience of the doings of boards in this direction, has not been encouraging; and this I am confident, is not the fault of the gentlemen as commissioners, in so far as they may have failed; the causes of their ill success must be extrinsic. Had they been accorded a fairer field, I am sure they would have wrought to better purpose. A thinker has observed that "the spirit in which we work is the chief matter," and we can never achieve civil service reform until interests which demand it shall be more potent in our public counsels than those which resist even while seeming to favor it. That this consumation is not distant, I fervently trust. In the meantime I thank you for your earnest and effective labors. To this end I remain Yours, Signed,

HORACE GREELEY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. July 22.

At a Liberal Republican meeting at the Temple to-night, called for the purpose of electing a county and executive committee, Senator Schurz delivered a very lengthy and elaborate address, of which the following is an outline:

The Senator began by saying: "Standing before my constituents, I deem it my duty to give an account of my public conduct, and motives which have governed it, and the ends it is intended to subserve. I can do this in no better way than by expressing fully and frankly my views on the events which have produced the present extraordinary situation of our public National affairs, events in which I took a small part; and also to state what I consider it my duty as a patriotic citizen to do, in order to promote the best interests of the Republic.

It has been my misfortune to displease many with whom I co operated in the political field for many years, and from whom I now with great regret find myself separated. And to attacks with which some of them endeavor to overwhelm me, I have but one answer."

He then reiterated what he had previously said about never considering his party the supreme arbiter of his sense of duty. He then said, "when I was honored with a seat in the Senate of the United States, I expected to support the administration which then came into power. The task it was then called to perform was of mutual importance. Civil war was over; its logical results, the abolition of slavery, and the organization of free labor, and society in the south were just being reduced to political form and imbedded in the constitution of the Republic. The first great object of our policy should have been to re-nationalize the South; to renew among the Southern people a feeling calculated to attach their hearts again to the fortunes of this Union. For let us not indulge in the delusion that the holding together by force, of its component parts, on a basis upon which a Republic can safely rest or long endure, it requires that the bond which binds together the hearts of the people, and not their bodies only to create that bond, was for us the highest object of statesmanship." He then referred in detail to the different acts of the administration party, going over the ground traversed by himself and others in the Senate. In regard to the San Domingo matter, he made the following statement:

"When the San Doming scheme was pending, two gentlemen in intimate relations with the White House came to me, each one separately, soliciting my support of the project. They assured me if I would give that support, or abstain from opposition, all the patronage I desired would be at my disposal, making me in that respect one of the most influential men in the land. One of these gentlemen subsequently admitted to me in writing that the offer was made to me with the consent of the President himself. He said he had withheld this statement a long time, in spite of many provocations, and made it now, only because the papers have recently stated that the President himself put forth the assertion in a published interview that he, Schurz, had opposed because he had not received as much patronage as he wanted.

The Senator discussed at length the need of reconciliation between the North and South, restoration of local self-government of the South, and the development of the highest and noblest aspirations among Southern people.

Regarding party relations, he said, "Republicans ask me—Shall we not be swallowed by the old Democratic party? Do you recognize the old Democratic party? I suspect it does not recognize itself. Do you fear to be swallowed by that old Democratic party? Why the Democratic party has been swallowed up itself by this new era. Let no body fear that I would lead him from the Republican into the Democratic camp, for I do not intend to go there myself; and unless I greatly mistake the tendency of the times, the day is not very far off when there will be but little of the old Republican camp to go from, and but little of the old Democratic camp to go to. This period is pregnant with new formations, which need but the electric spark of opportunity to spring it into shape. This is the time of independent action, and those who think as I do, will not, after having shaken off the shackles of one old party, take upon their limbs shackles of another. No party can do what the Democratic party has done, without dropping its historical identity. I honor the patriotic spirit of men who achieved so tremendous a revolution, and in the great work before us, I hail with joy and cordiality this alliance. But the party that has done this cannot return to its old grooves. It is impossible. The first attempt would shiver it into atoms.

NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, July 22.

Dispatches from Rear Admiral Jenkins commanding the Asiatic fleet, dated Yokohama, June 18th, state that he had an interview with the mikado, who expressed himself as much pleased with the accounts he received from the embassy in America.

Dispatches from the South Atlantic squadron report the health of the officers and men good.

The President will reach Washington in the early train to-morrow morning, and there will be a cabinet session at noon. Notices are being sent to members of the cabinet in Washington announcing this fact. It is not definitely known how long the President will remain in the city, but he will be here for two or three days.

Gen. Smith, of the army, arrived here to-day in charge of about twenty Indians, including the famous Spotted Tail. They will have an interview with the Secretary of the Interior, and probably with the President, within a day or two.

CITY ORDINANCE.

An Ordinance or Resolutions for the grading of a portion of Pierpont Street. Passed July 15th, 1872.

The Common Council of the City of Kingston do ordain and resolve as follows:

RESOLVED, That Pierpont street in said city, from Wurts street to Division street, be graded to its full width according to the following grade, which is hereby established as the grade of that portion of said Pierpont street lying between Wurts and Division streets, to wit: Commencing at the easterly side of Wurts street at its present established grade, and thence descending uniformly to the westerly side of Adams street, at a point eight feet perpendicularly below the present surface of the ground at the northwest corner of Pierpont and Adams streets, being George W. Dunn's corner; thence crossing Adams street and descending uniformly six inches in crossing; and thence descending uniformly to Division street at its present established grade, which grade of Division street corresponds with the surface of the rails of the railroad of the Rondout and Kingston Horse Railroad Company; and that as a part of such grading, the roadway of Pierpont street be top-dressed to the depth of six inches with broken stone and gravel, from Wurts street to Division street, in such manner as to render the street firm and secure against being washed away or injured by rain-storms.

RESOLVED, That such grading be done by the lowest bidder and under the direction of the superintendent of streets, sewers and city property, and that twenty-five per centum of the expense thereof be paid by a general tax upon the city, and that seventy-five per centum of such expense be defrayed by special assessment upon such portions of the real estate in said city bordering on or touching said Pierpont street, and against the owners thereof, as the assessors of said city shall deem more immediately benefitted by such improvement.

An Ordinance or Resolutions for the grading of a portion of Adams street. Passed July 15th, 1872.

The Common Council of the City of Kingston do ordain and resolve as follows:

RESOLVED, That Adams street in said city, from a point between the lots of Hiram Schoonmaker and William Welch to Pierpont street, be graded to its full width according to the following grade, which is hereby established therefor, to wit: Commencing at said point between the lots of Hiram Schoonmaker and William Welch, at the present grade or surface of said street, and thence descending uniformly to Pierpont street at a point eight feet perpendicularly below the present surface of the ground at the northwest corner of Pierpont and Adams streets, being George W. Dunn's corner; and that as a part of such grading the roadway of that portion of Adams street above specified be top-dressed to the depth of six inches with broken stone and gravel.

RESOLVED, That such grading be done by the lowest bidder and under the direction of the superintendent of streets, sewers and city property, and that twenty-five per centum of the expense thereof be paid by a general tax upon the city, and that seventy-five per centum of such expense be defrayed by special assessment upon such portions of the real estate in said city bordering on or touching said Adams street, and against the owners thereof, as the assessors of said city shall deem more immediately benefitted by such improvement.

CITY ORDINANCE.

An Ordinance relating to the sidewalks of a portion of Pierpont street. Passed July 15th, 1872.

The Common Council of the City of Kingston do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. The sidewalks on each side of that part of Pierpont street in said city, lying between Wurts street and Division street, are hereby required to be constructed, curbed and guttered in the manner and of the materials and within the time specified.

§ 2. The curbs shall be so set as to give a uniform width of eight feet from the street edge of the curb stones to the line of the street.

§ 3. The curbs and gutters shall be laid and set according to the grade established for said portion of the street, and the curbs on the corners of streets shall be set on the proper curve.

§ 4. The curb stones from Wurts streets to Adams street shall be at least 16 inches in depth, and from Adams street to Division street shall be at least 20 inches in depth, and of the usual thickness, and the gutter stones shall be 12 inches wide and of the usual thickness. From Adams street to Division street the gutters shall be paved with cobble stones to the width of three feet, and the ordinary gutter stones shall not be used.

§ 5. The sidewalks, at the option of the owners or occupants of the lands adjoining the same, may be flagged, graveled or covered with any hard materials giving a proper surface for sidewalks, according to the grade, and shall have a rising inclination of one-half an inch to each foot from the outer edge of the curb stones towards the buildings or street line.

§ 6. The improvements required by this ordinance shall be made and completed within sixty days from the time it takes effect.

§ 7. This ordinance shall take effect when and as soon as that part of Pierpont street above specified shall have been graded to its full width, and not before.

CITY ORDINANCE.

An Ordinance to regulate auction sales and hawking and peddling. Passed July 15th, 1872.

The Common Council of the City of Kingston, do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. All auction sales are hereby forbidden in said city unless in each case a license in writing for that purpose be first obtained from the Mayor for which he shall demand and receive, before granting such license, five dollars for each day of sale so allowed, not exceeding three days; twenty-five dollars for any longer period not exceeding one month; thirty-five dollars for any longer period not exceeding six months; and fifty dollars for any longer period not exceeding one year. Every person conducting or aiding in conducting any auction sale in violation of this section, shall thereby incur a penalty of ten dollars for every such offense, and a further penalty of ten dollars for each day or portion of a day such sale is continued. This section shall not apply to sales under legal process or chattel mortgages, or to sales by the head of a family breaking up house-keeping or removing, or his or her household goods.

§ 2. Hawking and peddling in the street of said city are hereby prohibited unless a license for that purpose be first obtained from the Mayor, for which he shall demand and receive before granting such license a sum not less than $5 nor more than $25.—Such license shall specify the period for which it is granted, which shall not exceed one year from the day of its date. Every person hawking or peddling in violation of this section, shall thereby incur a penalty of ten dollars for each and every such offense.—This section shall not apply to farmers or gardeners bringing their own produce to market.

§ 3. All license moneys received under this ordinance shall be paid into the city treasury.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 23, 1872.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Liberal Republican Headquarters.

The Liberal Republican Committee have secured the rooms of the Lincoln Literary Association, on Garden street, for their Headquarters during the pending political campaign. All those who are interested in the election of Greeley and Brown, will please call and register their names, also get documents for general reading.

Coal Arrival.

On Monday 53 canal boats laden with 6,733 tons of coal reached tide water at Eddyville through the Delaware and Hudson canal.

Knights of Pythias Excursion.

The Poughkeepsie Knights of Pythias excursion on Monday must have been a success, judging by the immense crowd on board of the barge and steamer. They reached here about 11 o'clock Monday forenoon, and quite a large delegation from this city embarked for the trip to Hudson.

Personal.

General Jacob Sharpe, now of New York but formerly of this city, was in town on Monday. His old comrades, especially those of the 156th Regiment, will rejoice to learn that he looks good, is doing a paying business, and goes for honest Horace Greeley.

Early Closing.

The early closing association in upper Kingston, was a grand success. There are three firms which closed at the appointed time, 7½ P. M. Decker, Brink & Radcliff, Dry Goods dealers; A. Lydecker, dealer in yankee notions, trimmings &c.; C. B. Smith [agt.] dealer in Boots & Shoes. We hope the others will come to the mark in a few days. Such is the wish of the clerks. "Carry the news to Hiram."

A Complaint from Abroad.

We are in receipt of a letter from an influential and prominent gentleman of Poughkeepsie, complaining of the inconvenience suffered by the running of the trains on the N. Y., K. & S. R. R. He says a score of Poughkeepsians took the 5:45 P. M. Hudson River R. R. train for Rhinebeck, intending making a trip over the N. Y. K. & S. R. R. The Hudson River train was 15 minutes late, so they had the mortification of seeing the train on this side leaving just after they arrived at Rhinecliff. The greater number of the party returned to Poughkeepsie. As their correspondent says he was previously informed by one of our officials that the train always waited for the Hudson River train, he thinks his friends should not have been put to this inconvenience.

A Word on Birds.

The New Paltz Independent tells of two chippy birds feeding a young black bird. If Ralph will look again, he will discover the young bird is a Cow Bunting, commonly called cow bird, because they are very apt to fly around the herds in pasture fields. In old times the superstition was that they would suck the cows and goats. They have one peculiarity, which is that they rarely if ever hatch, but lay their eggs in the nests of other birds, especially of those smaller than they are. Their young grow faster than those hatched from the eggs of the parents on the nest, and crowd the little ones out, hence it is quite common to see the little fly catchers feeding birds two or three times their size. The Cow Buntings are gay deceivers, aye, little rascals, for they make others raise their progeny.

Attempt at Kidnapping.

A few days since a young child of Capt. A. Campbell, who lives on the corner of Union avenue and Chestnut street, was standing in the street near its parents' residence, when a couple of young women came along. They stopped and began talking to the child, and an eye-witness heard one say to the other, "I will," while her companion seemed to expostulate with her, and finally went on, leaving the other alone with the child. After talking with the little one for some time, the woman took hold of its hand and led it away down street. The attention of a young sister of the child was called to the occurrence, and she ran after the little one to call it back. The young woman resisted, and attempted to go on with the child, but its frantic outcries and the sister's calls finally seemed to intimidate her and she let it go.—There seems to be no doubt but she intended to smuggle the child away from home, with what object in view is of course not known.

Tows.

The following tows left this port last evening:

Steamers Norwich, New York and Oswego—Ice barges Edmonds, R. Pareer; Schooners Caroline, Forest City; Barge Dayton from New Paltz to Haverstraw; Boats Whitehall, T. F. Carpenter, Florence, T. H. Stephens, Wm. Farmer, Monticello, Wm. H. Ham, M. E. Harrigan (light) Kate Stuart (light) Alexander, Jno. E. Hoagland, 5 coal boats; G. A. Dudley to Haverstraw.

Propeller Sammie Cornell, to Newburgh—4 Northern boats, boats 399, 697 to Poughkeepsie; Thorn to Newburgh.

Steamer Herald to Albany—Schooner Favorite; sloop Mattie Davis; barges Washington, Gen. Worth; boats Success, Quincy, S. Craig, Mary Alice; Blue Stone from Walden; barge Van Rensselaer to Athens; Schooner Maggie Mc Donald from Athens.

Steamers Columbia to Hudson—6 coal boats; boats 761 to Athens; Budington, Alice Louisa, M. Langhuy, C. H. Swain, 2 Pa. coal boats, Dreadnought.

The following are the up tows from New York—Boats Mohunk, Sandy, Scatchard Belton, B. Haywood, L. French, Metz, Somerset, Jos. Roach, N. Althouse, Gov. Jones, Gen. Hooker; Ice barges Gen. Wool, Sturgeon; schooners, Calisa, L. Standish.

Low Water.

While riding past the fourth Binnewater on Sunday last a FREEMAN attache was informed that the oldest dweilers in the region of that lake never remember to have seen the water so low in it. The basin of the lake on the west side of the rocky point is entirely free from water and the bottom is covered with a heavy crop of grass, on which cattle graze. It is a rather singular circumstance, as we have had abundant rains, and the fifth Binnewater, the most beautiful lake hereabouts, seemed to have more water than usual.

CITY NOTES.

Work has commenced on the alms-house, and is progressing very satisfactorily.

Fine harvest apples are becoming very abundant in our markets; farmers bring them in daily.

Cornell Hose Company are making extensive arrangements for their usual summer excursion, and are now awaiting an answer to an application to charter one of the finest excursion boats on the river. Girls, get dresses ready, for the boys are going to astonish you.

A fine sight was witnessed from those parts of the city commanding a view of the mouth of the creek on Sunday. A large number of sail vessels, fifteen or twenty in all, lay at anchor just outside and below the light-house. It was a beautiful scene, made more impressive by the "holy calm" which prevailed over land and water, for the glassy surface of the Hudson was scarcely rippled by the gentlest zephyr, the vessels lying becalmed and with furled sails. At night, when the lamps on the vessels were lit, it was a very pretty sight, and had one not been aware of the surroundings, it would have been easy to imagine that he was looking at the glimmering "household lights" of a large village.

COUNTY.

The railroad bridge at Rosendale is a great place of resort in the evenings of these hot days and on Sundays. Men, women and children flock there in crowds, and youths and maidens make it a trysting place during moonlight nights.

Farmers in Ulster county are rejoicing at the promise of an abundant corn harvest during the present year. A ride of some miles along pleasant country roads two days since convinced a FREEMAN reporter he had never seen more luxuriant corn fields during his life, but then "what he knows about farming" wouldn't make much of a book.

Down in Esopus, on the banks of the Hudson, along which for miles the summer residences of wealthy New Yorkers extend, the grounds being laid out most magnificently, a native of the town lives and has lived for years. He owns a narrow strip of land between the lordly manors of two wealthy gentlemen, and has been approached time and again with offers to buy his land at almost fabulous prices; indeed, he could sell out and retire with a snug bank account. But the old gentleman "don't see it," and when asked the reason of his conduct, replies, "Do you think I'll let them ere bloods ride over me? I own this land and I don't ax no odds of 'em." And the old fellow remains in his dilapidated rookery of a dwelling, content to eke out a precarious subsistence by fishing and raising what little produce he can on the sterile acres, which he might literally turn into a gold mine—or, perhaps more properly, a greenback manufactory.

A Row and Assault.

Jacob Kaupt of Hickory Bush, while drunk on Sunday, the 21st, attempted to enter a Mrs. Kelley's house at that place, when the lady split his head open with an axe. This brought some Germans to the rescue, but they were beaten off.

Teachers' Institute.

School Commissioners C. Van Santvord, Oscar Mulford and H. W. Montross have issued a notice to the "teachers and friends of education" in the county, to attend the Teachers' institute at New Paltz, beginning on Monday, August 12th, and continuing in session for two weeks. Good and efficient instructors will be provided for the occasion. A large attendance is asked, and confidently hoped for. Teachers on arriving at the place designated for holding the Institute should immediately report themselves to the Commissioners, that assistance, if needed, may be rendered in securing a suitable place as a home during the session of the Institute.

Arrivals at Overlook.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Thomas, two children and nurse, T. S. Hall, Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Merritt, Jas. G. Menzies, Mrs. Bedford, J. H. Lockwood, J. W. Brigham, Alfred L. Edmonds, P. H. Van Buren, Mrs. E. Phalon, N. Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. Brinkerhoff, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Abram Merritt, Nyack; Dr. A. N. Chapman, Jas. P. Williams, Brooklyn; Dr. W. C. Covden, Louisville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Weeks, Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Hoes, Geo. P. Hasbrouck, G. N. Warner, S. N. Bolles, Kingston; Mrs. O. H. Seymour, Trumansburgh; Lewis Breitenbacher, Miss M. Snyder, A. Sculberger, Rondout.

Thermometer 1 P. M., July 22d, 66°.

A Singular Shower.

The brief shower, between 4 and 5 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, was a peculiar one in its range, being severe in the southern portion of the city, moderate in the central, and hardly a drop falling north of Colonie street. Evidently the shower in the sky was of quite large hail, but ere it reached the earth the sultry air had dissolved it, and it fell in great splashes of water. Shortly before this time a heavy storm prevailed between Amsterdam and Schenectady, accompanied by lightning and thunder. The air last night was gratefully cooler, and this has been a comfortable summer's day—Albany Evening Times.

VICINITY.

Albany is threatened with a water famine, there being but three feet of water in the reservoir.

Matteawan is kept gently agitated during these warm days by occasional outbreaks of small-pox.

Capt. Stevens' new steamboat will commence running between Newburgh and Nyack in a few days.

A Rhinebeck justice rendered a decision the other day from which both parties to the suit wanted to appeal.

A Rhinebeck young man complains that he isn't invited to school exhibitions because he is poor. Poor fellow!

Rhinebeck streets are rendered impassable by the weeds which grow therein. The corporation ought to buy a mowing machine.

The Hancox steamers Vanderbilt and Connecticut have been hauled off the Troy route, thus leaving it free to the Troy Merchants' Transportation Company.

The editor of the Poughkeepsie Eagle promises to take the editors (who assemble in convention at that place next summer,) up the heights of Hifalutin and show them the whole country of Bombast.

It took two policemen and three night employees of the Daily Eagle to wake up Dr. Clark on account of an accident having happened to his brother.—Poughkeepsie Eagle. We don't see what the accident to his brother had to do with the soundness of the doctor's slumbering; for, according to the argument, if the brother had been killed, the Dr. wouldn't have been awakened yet.

OUR FREE PARLIAMENT.

The Sabbath Question.

MR. FREEMAN:—I have noticed lately that a good deal has been published in the daily journals, periodicals and elsewhere about the Sabbath; how we ought to keep it, what we ought to do and what is improper to do on this day. Even some of the Dominies have meddled with this question so far as to tell us when this Sabbath arrangement was first made, how they used to keep it in Jerusalem and in Rome, how they treat it on the continent and away out west and a few other places. I have watched this discussion with a good deal of interest, because I think that the real comfort and enjoyment of everybody, everywhere, depends on the good time we can have on this day, that was a long time ago set apart for man.

In Boston they have made a good commencement and opened the public libraries so that all the good boys and girls can have a pleasant time reading a little, and chatting and looking at each other a good deal. I hope all the other large cities and villages will follow the good example of the glorious old "Hub." How can we young people enjoy ourselves unless we can have some good place to go to on the Sabbath? There is and always has been too much said about how the Huguenots and the old sour pilgrims kept the Sabbath day; as though they were models for us in these days of Steam, Insurance, Lotteries, Rings and money making generally. We are told on the highest authority that the "Sabbath was made for man." This being the case I should like to know why he cannot use it in any way that is agreeable to him? I propose to free my mind on this subject by telling you what, especially, ought to be done with the Sabbath day! and I have no doubt that I shall express the real sentiments of a great many people in this region who are afraid to speak out their real opinions.

Some of our best and most morally courageous men about here have already made a good beginning. For instance, the Kingston & Syracuse Railroad Company run their trains on the Sabbath. That is right, because it enables all the people living along the line of the road to get ready their oxen, sheep, calves, butter, &c., on Sunday and send it to the city. This apparently saves a whole day.—The owners of the steamer James W. Baldwin start their steamer on Sabbath afternoon for New York. This boat takes the freight of the train not only, but gives the Christian people of this city an opportunity of spending the latter part of the Sabbath day in a pleasant and profitable manner. Any skeptic who will take the boat for a few Sabbath afternoons will be surprised to see how many real Christian people do use the Sabbath to go to New York. You see they are anxious to make money to support their families and send the gospel to the heathen. I think it would suit a great many people and be a good plan for Capt. Anderson run his boat on Sunday morning to New York. It would make a pleasant sail and would accommodate so many people who would much rather go a sailing than to church or Sabbath School. There are also a great many people, especially young men and young ladies, who have very little time during the busy week to visit the ice cream saloons, who would enjoy a little of this luxury if our city fathers would only order a few of them to be kept open on the Sabbath. It is the very best time in the whole week to have a cool, pleasant time, to have fun and enjoy ourselves. I notice with pain that our Mayor and common council (on whom I thought we could rely) are about closing all liquor and beer saloons. It is to be sincerely hoped by ever so many, that they will do no such unkind thing. Sunday is the very best day to drink and carouse in of the whole week. Do not, we pray, interfere with our pleasures on the Sabbath; if you do the honors of office may not be long yours. I repeat "The Sabbath was made for man."

Truly yours, J. B.

LOOK AT THE FIGURES!

183,609 Machines per annum.

Many new machine companies have had their rise and fall—their machines once popular now scarcely known—others have made radical changes in order to exist; while the Howe Machine Company have adhered to the opinion of "Elias Howe, Master of Mechanics" ("The machine is mechanically correct; does not change"), built addition after addition to their factory, and to-day cannot supply the demand, although turning out six hundred machines a day—just a machine a minute.

THE ELIAS HOWE, JR. Sewing Machines MANUFACTURED BY The Howe Machine Co.

FOR FAMILIES AND MANUFACTURES,

THE GREAT PRIZE: EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS, 1867. Awarded over eighty-two competitors

The Highest Premium,

THE ONLY CROSS OF THE LEGION OF HONOR AND GOLD MEDAL,

Given to American Sewing Machines, per Imperial Decree, published in the "Moniteur Universel" (Official Journal of the French Empire,) Tuesday, 2d July, 1867, in these words:

ELIAS HOWE, JR. { Fabricante de Machines a coudre exposant. Manufacturer of Sewing Machines, Exhibitor.

The Howe Sewing Machines

Are celebrated and known for doing the best work, using a straight and much smaller needle for the same thread than any other machine. They are adapted to any and all kinds of family sewing and manufacturing of every description, from fine lace to patent leather, making a beautiful and perfect Lock Stich, alike on both sides of the article sewed, and will neither rip nor ravel, and uses less thread.

Every machine is as near perfection as the best machinery in the world can make it. It is the oldest machine and has more improvements, and is nearer perfection than any other machine, the parts being exactly alike. If any of the parts need to be replaced, the operator can replace it, and it will outlast and outwear any machine made. They are remarkably simple and easily learned, sure in their operation, and almost impossible to break or get them out of order. They use any thread directly from the spool. The needle has a perpendicular motion, absolutely necessary for heavy work; runs easily, a fast sewer, and almost noiseless. They do not soil the dress of the operator, and do not have to be taken apart to oil and clean. The New Improved Family Machine cannot be surpassed and is without equal, and we CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce a better machine on points of merit. A Hemmer, Feller, Gatherer, Braider, Quilter, Tucking Guide, and all the other necessary Tools go with each machine, free of charge.

☞ Beware of spurious and bogus Howe's. The undersigned is the only authorized Agent for the Genuine Howe Machine.

C. S. STILLWELL, General Agent

CORNS are as useless to the community as mischief-making old maids, corner loafers in large cities, or dishonest politicians, no more of a luxury than epsom salts or castor oil, and no more desirable for comfort than a hedge hog is for a parlor ornament. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies, Alleviator and Curative, eradicates corns, vanishes bunions, and cures ingrowing nails, sore insteps, and other obnoxious torments of feet.—Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

LISTEN. What do you hear? A cough?—What does it indicate? Perhaps a tickle in the throat; perhaps bronchitis: it may be a recent cold; it may be an effort of nature to clear the bronchia; it may be the deep hollow cough, boon companion of that terrible master of consumption.—In either case the free use of Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer, as directed, will banish all kinds of Cough, cure Bronchitis certain, and all the early symptoms of Consumption. Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

$1000 Reward for an incurable case of Catarrh. After having suffered, deluged, gargled, hawked, spit and gagged to your entire satisfaction in useless endeavors to get relief from Catarrh, use Briggs' Allevantor, according to directions. The filthy mass of mucous will be immediately expelled, the inflamed surface soothed, the eyes sparkle with delight, the head feels natural again; hope revives, for a cure is sure to follow the use of this agreeable, scientific and reliable remedy. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS Let them ache, cut your boots, curse them and make up your mind that you can endure their torments as long as they can torment you, but take the advice of an old chap who has tried it, but got worsted by the corns. They are worse than a coon in a barrel; never surrender, but fight it out on that line summer and winter. Corns, bunions, ingrowing nails and other such pleasant little pets, are gathered into the relief kitchen, by using Briggs' corn and bunion remedies, Alevinator and Curative. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

PILES It is a simple word, but carries terror to the hearts of those who have dragged out a miserable existence for days, weeks, months or years, and who can describe their sufferings only by saying, "Life has no pleasure for me; if I were only out of my misery, what a blessing it would be." Let such sufferers cheer up, the messenger of peace is on the wing. Briggs' Pile Remedies have come—try them. They are to those afflicted with internal, bleeding, external and itching piles, indeed a blessing. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS, Bunions, Toe Nails, Tender Feet, &c., also Piles, Cancerous and Scrofulous Humors, Skin Diseases, &c., skillfully and successfully treated by DR. J. BRIGGS & CO., at the Great Central Healing and Chiropodical Institute, No. 697 Broadway, N. Y. Open day and evening.

JOHN G. WOLVEN,

OF THE

CITY LIVERY, SALE AND EXCHANGE STABLES,

To supply the great demand of his customers, has purchased of Brewster & Co., of Broome street, New York, a very fine LANDAU CARRIAGE of elegant design, IMPORTED FROM BERLIN, Prussia, at the cost of $3,000. It can be easily changed in three different ways to suit customers—closed, half-top or all open. He has also new buggies, two-seated park phaetons, first class horses, four-in-hand-turn-outs, and careful drivers, to be let on reasonable terms.

Having purchased nearly an entire new stock, he will sell his entire former stock, consisting of carriages, buggies, harness, three-seated wagons, half-tops, rockaways &c., many of which are nearly new, at a great sacrifice. Summer boarding-house keepers and others who desire to procure good carriages and wagons at low prices, will do well to give him a call. No better bargains can be offered in the City of Kingston.
